YET ANOTHER BOOTLEGGING CONVICTION

Sentence Deferred Pending Application For A Stated Case For Appeal To Supreme Court

Following a legal battle in Police Court on Tuesday afternoon, E. W. Minogue was convicted by Magistrate J. F. Burne on a charge of keeping liquor for sale.

At the request of Mr. T. G. Norris, K.C., counsel for the accused, a remand of one week was granted before sentence or fine will be imposed. Mr. Norris intimated that he would make application for a stated case, which means that the decision may be appealed in Supreme Court—not in County Court before Judge J. D. Swanson.

The case, which has been followed with considerable interest, was the result of a police raid early on Sunday morning, March 24th, when Sergeant A. Macdonald and Constables W. J. Butler and Bellhouse seized a quantity of liquor on the premises occupied by the accused, after which a charge was laid of keeping liquor for sale.

With Mr. E. C. Weddell, City Solicitor, prosecuting, the case was opened on Monday morning, when the police testified that a number of people were found consuming liquor on the premises. Accused was remanded until Tuesday afternoon, when counsel presented their arguments.

Citing a number of cases, the prosecution contended that the burden of proof that liquor was not sold to those found consuming beer on the premises rested upon the accused, and that the evidence pointed to bootlegging activities. The defence held that the quantity of liquor found in the house was not immoderate and that many respectable householders might be arraigned on the same charge. It was not illegal to purchase liquor from the B. C. Government store, and all seized bore the government seal. The court had no proof that liquor had been sold. Admission of certain statements made to the police by the accused at the time of the raid, adduced as evidence by the prosecution, was objected to by Mr. Norris.

PRINCE OF WALES ONCE SANG "RED FLAG"

LONDON, April 4.—That the Prince of Wales once sang the Communist "Red Flag" to his own band accompaniment is revealed by Basil Maine in his biography, "The King's First Ambassador," published today at Oxford. A political argument, it seems, was snuffed out by the Prince striking up the air of the revolutionary song, which proved to be a master stroke of conciliation.

CANADIAN LEGION BRANCH CONTINUES TO PROSPER

Finances In Sound Condition With Increased Surplus—G. N. Kennedy Re-elected President

Reports submitted at the annual meeting of Kelowna Branch, No. 26, Canadian Legion, held in the Legion premises, Ellis Street, on Thursday evening, with President G. N. Kennedy in the chair, showed the affairs of the Branch to be in a prosperous condition, with a handsome balance of revenue over expenditure for the financial year ending Feb. 28th and a considerable addition to the surplus.

The various reports were approved and the Committee were thanked for their good work during the past year. A resolution was passed authorizing the Committee to make such donation as they might see fit from the funds of the Branch towards any worthy object in commemoration of the Silver Jubilee of His Majesty the King.

President G. N. Kennedy, First Vice-President B. P. Meredith and Second Vice-President H. S. Atkinson had all been previously elected by acclamation to succeed themselves for another term of office. Of the four members of Committee, Comrades J. Gibb, R. Haldane and G. W. Hammond offered themselves for re-election. Comrade O. L. Jones declining to stand for another term. Six new candidates were nominated and a ballot was held on Saturday, resulting in the return of Comrades Gibb, Haldane and Hammond, with Comrade A. S. Wade successful as the new committeeman.

CONCERT SOCIETY MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Minimum Of Three Hundred Must Be Secured By May 1st

The Kelowna branch of the Canadian Concert Association is holding its membership drive this month.

According to instructions from the head office at Toronto, the minimum of three hundred members must be secured by May 1st if the concerts are to be brought to Kelowna next season. The local committee hopes that all who joined last season will renew their membership early and interest their friends in the Association. A larger membership means better artists and more concerts.

The committee hopes to increase the membership sufficiently to arrange for a fourth concert next season to be given by selected local talent.

Some of the advantages of the Canadian Concert Association plan are:

In addition to the evening recitals at which only subscribers are entitled to attend, the plan brings to the children of secondary school age, without cost to them, at least three concerts of great music each year, with explanatory comments by outstanding Canadian artists. As the plan develops, eminent British artists will be brought over to assist in this work.

C.C.A. artists have lectured, sung and played to more than 25,000 Ontario High School pupils in the past two years, thus exerting a fine and far-reaching influence upon the best kind of cultural development in this province. The plan is now operating successfully in several of the provinces, including British Columbia, and other provinces are awaiting only the necessary campaigns of organization.

NO AMENDMENT OF COMBINES INVESTIGATION ACT

OTTAWA, April 4.—The move by Senator J. P. D. Casgrain to take some of the teeth out of the Combines Investigation Act, so as to permit business more latitude in regard to price agreements, met a sudden end in the Senate yesterday when Senator Danahy, Liberal leader in that body, stated that this was the time to tighten up the Act against "greedy and grasping people," rather than to relax it. Without a vote, Senator Casgrain's motion was given six months' hoist.

NEW GOVERNOR-GENERAL PAYS TRIBUTE TO KING

Contribution To Literature Of Jubilee Year Published Today

LONDON, April 4.—The contribution of John Buchan, new Governor-General of Canada, to the literature of the Jubilee year is published today. The book is a striking tribute to the King, his personality and his work for the nation and Empire through the twenty-five years of his reign.

"His quick sympathy and kindness have warmed the country and have done something towards the chilly world. When nerves have been breaking, his steadfastness has restored them, and when strife has been fermenting, he has spoken healing words," writes Buchan. "The power of the Throne lies in what it is, but the authority of the King lies both in what he is and in what he has done. With the Queen and his family to aid him, he has made Britain not only a nation but a household which covers the whole Empire," states the distinguished author.

LOCAL SUPPLIES FOR RELIEF CAMPS

Larger Measure Of Direct Purchase Of Requirements In District

Mr. W. A. Cooke, superintendent of the relief camps under the Department of National Defence, Kelowna, announced last week that, beginning on April 1st, tenders would be invited on the supplying of produce to the camps of this general district.

This comes as welcome news to the producers, who are pleased with this change, for which Hon. Grote Stirling, head of the Department, is responsible.

Mr. Cooke states that, while there has always been a good measure of local buying in this territory, from now on there will be certain changes in the system. Contracts decided upon at Ottawa will not be so numerous, and there will be a more direct arrangement with the producers locally. Those interested in selling vegetables, meats, eggs and groceries are invited to apply to Mr. Cooke for contract forms.

Contracts will be on a monthly basis, and tenders will be called for on the 10th of each month. They will be opened on the 25th and will apply to the following month's supplies.

B. C. TUSSLE FOR DOMINION HOOP PLAYDOWNS

Kelowna Senior B Champs Meet Blue Ribbons, Senior A Champs, Tomorrow And Saturday

British Columbia's Senior B basketball champions left yesterday (Wednesday) by motor car for Victoria, where they will meet the Victoria Blue Ribbons, provincial Senior A champions, on Friday and Saturday in a two-game series to decide which team shall represent British Columbia in the Dominion playdowns. Total points scored in the two games will decide the winners.

With the exception of Maurice Meikle, who has gone to Nelson, the invading Kelowna team will be composed of its strongest players.

Through the co-operation of a number of Kelowna merchants, a telegraphic account of the games will be broadcast over CKOV on each evening.

While it is universally regretted throughout the Interior that the games are not being played in Kelowna, it is realized that the Interior is not entitled to all the major events. According to reports, the advance sale of seats at Victoria has been heavy, consequently large crowds are assured.

Having in mind the department of Victorians at the Senior A playoffs last week, we trust that the Orchard City lads will dodge all and sundry ripe tomatoes and bring home the bacon!

COURSE IN MINING NOW IN PROGRESS

Series Of Fourteen Lectures On Tuesday And Friday Evenings

A series of fourteen lectures in mining to be given by Mr. H. C. Hughes, lecturer under the auspices of the B.C. Department of Mines, was arranged for on Tuesday evening, when a meeting was held in the Junior High School Auditorium for the purpose of organizing classes.

About sixty people interested in mining, prospecting and mineralogy in general attended the meeting, at which Mr. Hughes proceeded with his first lecture. The class will meet on Tuesday and Friday evenings at the school until the course is completed.

The lectures will be given free of charge by Mr. Hughes, whose expenses are paid by the Department. He conducted similar classes at Vernon, and was invited to come here by the Kelowna School Board at the request of a number of people desirous of taking the course.

Overwhelming Majority For Marketing Scheme

MORE THAN NINETY-SIX PER CENT OF GROWERS WHO VOTED FAVOUR CONTINUANCE OF CONTROL PLAN

1,472 For And Only 55 Against

British Columbia fruit growers are overwhelmingly in favour of continuance of the marketing scheme under the Natural Products Marketing Act.

Over ninety-six per cent of the growers who voted recorded their approval of the scheme which operated during the past season. This was revealed yesterday afternoon, when the first count of the ballots was completed by Returning Officer J. E. Young, of East Kelowna, and Mr. F. R. E. DeHart, of Kelowna, who acted as scrutineer.

The figures, subject to rechecking, were announced as follows:—

Total vote: 1,549, or over seventy per cent of the total number of registered growers.

In favour of continuance of the scheme: 1,472.

Opposed to continuance of the scheme: 55.

Spoiled ballots, unsigned, etc.: 22.

The next ballot to be taken will be for the election of the Local Board, voting on which must be completed by May 31st.

LARGE INCREASE IN DOMINION COLLECTIONS

Customs And Excise Revenues Here Up Nearly Seven Thousand Dollars

Customs and excise collections for the fiscal year ended March 31st, 1935, were nearly seven thousand dollars higher than collections for the previous year. The Courier is informed by Mr. A. D. Weddell, Sub-Collector for the Outport of Kelowna.

Collections for the year ended March 31st, 1935, total $26,781.21 as against the figure of $20,099.35 for the fiscal year ended March 31st, 1934.

The increase of $6,681.86 indicates a return to better times.

SIMPSON AND McGEER NOW AT OUTS

Radical Mayors Of Vancouver And Toronto Indulge In Some Plain Speaking

TORONTO, April 4.—Mayor Gerry McGeer of Vancouver and Mayor Jimmy Simpson of Toronto have fallen out and Jimmy now accuses Gerry of "bad grace" and "talking through his hat."

In a speech here, Mayor McGeer took a crack at Mayor Simpson, saying: "I want to tell my friend that when you increase your mill rate you are not going forward but backwards. People who say Toronto's finances are in a sound position are just fooling themselves."

Mayor Simpson increased Toronto's tax rate this year, insisting, in the face of stiff opposition, that the city was sound.

Angered at McGeer's remarks, Toronto's Mayor snorted: "In the light of things, I think the visiting Mayor has had grace to refer to increase of the tax rate in a city where the permanent cost-of-direct-relief and the serious reduction in the assessment have so vitally affected our finances." McGeer's statement, Mayor Simpson said, "followed his description of the terrible mess in Vancouver, where they took the sinking fund and applied it to current expenditures, and where they had obtained legislation to use their sinking fund for purposes that such funds are never used for. McGeer, he concluded contemptuously, was 'talking through his hat.'"

BANKS REDUCE INTEREST RATE TO B.C. GOVERNMENT

VICTORIA, April 4.—Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, announces that the Government has secured a reduction of one-quarter of one per cent in the rate of interest paid on bank loans, which will now be four and one-quarter per cent.

BOOTLEGGER GOES TO JAIL FOR SIX MONTHS

Joe Thibault Found Guilty Of Keeping Liquor For Sale—Sentenced To Hard Labour

Found guilty of keeping liquor for illicit sale, Joe Thibault was sentenced by Magistrate J. F. Burne on Friday to serve six months at hard labour at Oakalla.

The case was the result of a police raid in the early hours on Sunday, March 24th, when, according to testimony by the police—Sergeant A. Macdonald, Constables W. J. Butler and Bellhouse—a number of people consuming beer were found on the premises and a small quantity of the liquor was seized.

Accused pleaded not guilty and called six witnesses to testify in his behalf.

Mr. E. C. Weddell, City Solicitor, prosecuted the case.

WALKOUT FROM RELIEF CAMPS A FAILURE

Of Eight Thousand Men Less Than One Hundred Leave Camps

VICTORIA, April 4.—Reports up to noon today to the Provincial Police indicated that the "massed walkout" from relief camps throughout the province has failed, only a small percentage of the men obeying the organizers' orders. Of eight thousand men in the camps, less than one hundred have walked out.

(An earlier dispatch conveyed a totally different impression, and there is no explanation as to the discrepancy in the facts stated. The wire is subjoined.)

VANCOUVER, April 4.—The threat of the jobless men in relief camps to "march on Vancouver" materialized today, despite the action of the Dominion Government in appointing a commission to probe the men's complaints. Flatly refusing to appear before the commission, the leaders renewed their orders for a "massed walkout."

Sixty-five men arrived here last night by boat from Squamish. Provincial Police were advised today that more than five hundred have left camps at Kamloops, Princeton and Chilliwack and are making their way to the city. Both the provincial and city authorities have warned the men that they will not be as on the occasion of the previous "march," be given food and lodging here. Meanwhile the R.C.M.P., Provincial Police and the Vancouver City force are co-operating in preparations against possible disorder.

The demands of the men include union wages of fifty cents an hour for a six-hour day, unemployment insurance without contribution by employees, the camps to be run by camp committees composed entirely of the men, the government to relinquish all control of camps, and the laws against sedition and all anti-working class legislation to be abolished.

IRISH FREE STATERS HAVE SPITE AT THEMSELVES

Legislation Abolishes Status As British Subjects

DUBLIN, April 4.—The Senate last night passed the Citizenship Bill, under which citizens of the Irish Free State cease to be British subjects.

The British Government denies the right of the Free State to deprive its citizens of the status of British subjects.

B. McDONALD TO BE ROTARY CHIEF

President-Elect Has Perfect Record Of Attendance

Rotarian Byron ("Barney") McDonald has been chosen by unanimous vote of the members of the Rotary Club of Kelowna for the office of President as from June next. Mr. McDonald is one of the charter members of the club, and possesses the remarkable record of never having missed one of the weekly meetings since its inception, either here or in some other city.

Directors chosen at the weekly meeting held on Tuesday of last week were Past President Monty Fraser, R. W. Corner, Chas. Hubbard, Rev. W. W. McPherson, J. Brydon and L. L. Kerry.

Rehearsing for the play "Charley's Aunt," under the direction of Mr. W. B. Bredin, which is to be presented in the Junior High School auditorium on April 25th and 26th, is keeping the members of the cast busy, and everything is being done to ensure two full houses.

DOMINION BOTANIST TO SPEAK HERE

Address To Be Delivered Under Auspices Of Kelowna Rotary Club

What promises to be one of the most interesting and instructive lectures to be heard in Kelowna for a considerable time past will be delivered on Tuesday, April 23rd, when Dr. H. T. Gussow, LL.D., F.R.S.C., Dominion Botanist, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, will speak on "The Botanical Gardens of the British Empire," under the auspices of the Rotary Club of Kelowna. The L.O.O.F. Hall has been booked for the occasion and the lecture, which will commence at 8 p.m., will be open to all without charge. This eminent authority on botany will have much to convey to the people of this district, many of whom have travelled extensively and are deeply interested in gardening and botanical subjects.

In addition to the lecture, a violin recital will be given by Dr. M. Katz, Ph.D., of the National Research Council, Ottawa, guest artist of the Penticton unit of the Canadian Concert Association, who will be accompanied by his wife.

The Rotary Club, having had the opportunity to sponsor these distinguished men and feeling that they have something of outstanding interest to a large number of people, is asking all to be its guests for the evening.

DOMINION TO FINANCE RELIEF TO APRIL 30TH

VICTORIA, April 4.—The Dominion Government has agreed to finance unemployment relief until the end of April. The $1,250,000 loan to B.C. passed in Ottawa yesterday was an instalment of last year's advance.

DOMINION DISSOLUTION DEFERRED TILL AUGUST

OTTAWA, April 4.—Parliament will not be dissolved until August 18th, the Minister of Justice informed the House of Commons today in reply to Liberal demands for an early election. The date mentioned will be exactly five years from the return of the writs in the 1930 election.

RAY CLARK HEADS LARGE TOURIST ASSOCIATION

Energetic O.C. Trail Chief Elected President Of Pacific Northwest Tourist Association

Mr. Ray W. Clark, President of the Okanagan-Cariboo Trail Association, has been elected as the first president of the Pacific Northwest Tourist Association, which was brought into being at a convention held last week in Butte, Montana.

Seven of the Northwest states are included in this newly formed organization, including North and South Dakota, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming and the province of British Columbia. All phases of transportation are also included, railroads, air lines, bus lines, auto associations, hotel associations, etc.

The convention was called to consider ways and means of combatting on behalf of the Northwest the strenuous campaigns to attract tourist business which are being staged by other sections of the continent. The New England States have banded together for this purpose and so have the Eastern Provinces of Canada. Down in the Southeastern section of the United States five or six states have banded together. California is always advertising its attractions and Mexico is running a strong tourist campaign. Therefore the convention decided that it was absolutely necessary for the Pacific Northwest to get together on this matter and operate a programme which will reach to all parts of the United States.

As President of this new Pacific Northwest Tourist Association, Mr. Ray Clark will be closely in touch with all its operations and the interests of the Okanagan-Cariboo Trail will be well taken care of.

While in Butte, Mr. Clark delivered a radio broadcast in which he dealt with the attractions of the Okanagan-Cariboo Trail, advising intending visitors that, while some portions of the highway are not at present on a par with other sections, it is desirable anyway to drive reasonably slowly in order to be able to properly appreciate the scenery. Mr. Clark also gave several newspaper interviews along similar lines.

LIMITATION OF VEGETABLE ACREAGE

Marketing Board Warns Growers Not To Exceed Quantity Planted Last Year

In "Information Circular No. 2," issued today by the British Columbia (Interior) Vegetable Marketing Board, the Board stresses the great danger of the growers increasing their production this year and urges them to limit their acreage to that of 1934, warning them that low returns may result if production is not planned to meet the demand.

The text of the circular is as follows:—

"Forms of application for registration received as at this date from producers indicate that many of them intend to increase their acreages in vegetables this year, no doubt expecting better returns for their produce in anticipation of orderly marketing of vegetables under the British Columbia (Interior) Vegetable Marketing Board.

"The Board at this time wishes to point out to all producers the great danger of increasing the vegetable production, and strongly urges them to limit their acreages to about what they planted last year.

"The market demand for British Columbia vegetables has been decreasing of recent years due to an increasing vegetable production on the prairies, and it is quite obvious that operations of the Marketing Board will be seriously handicapped, resulting in low returns to the producers, unless an effort is made to plan production to meet the demand.

"In view of the danger of a heavy surplus, and in view of the greatly increased planting on the prairies, growers should not expect that in this, its first year of operation, the Vegetable Marketing Board can so stabilize the market as to obtain increased vegetable prices sufficiently high to warrant additional planting. It is clear that, if the planting is greatly increased, the Board will have to take some steps to limit the quantity of the product which may be marketed.

"To producers intending to plant acreage increased over their averages during the past years, the Board wishes to emphasize the fact that it has power under the British Columbia (Interior) Vegetable Marketing Scheme to determine the quantity of vegetables that shall be marketed by any person at any time and to prohibit the marketing of any vegetables of any grade, quality or class.

"These provisions of the scheme are also especially drawn to the attention of producers who are growing vegetables this year for the first time.

"Dated at Kelowna this 4th day of April, 1935.

"By Order,
BRITISH COLUMBIA (INTERIOR) VEGETABLE MARKETING BOARD,
(Sgd.) J. H. Thompson, Secretary."

HIS "RACKET"

A man got stalled with his automobile in a mudhole near a lake last summer. While making a vain attempt to get out, a small boy appeared with a team of horses.

"Want me to help you out, mister?"
"How much do you want?"
"Three dollars."

After the work had been done and the money paid, the tourist asked:

"Do you pull out many cars here?"
"About 12 a day on the average," replied the boy.
"Do you work nights, too?" inquired the tourist.

"Yes, I haul water for the mudhole."

(Edited by S.M.)

Orders for the week commencing
Thursday, April 4th, 1935:
Duties: Orderly patrol for the week,
Wolves; next for duty, Eagles.

Rallies: The Troop will rally at the Scout Hall on Friday, April 5th, and Tuesday, April 9th, at 7.15 p.m.

Harold R. Henderson, Patrol Leader from the 1st Calgary Troop, and Robert Hume, of Benvoulin, made application to join the Kelowna Troop on Tuesday.

Scout Notes Of Interest

Malayan Scouts at the Australian Jamboree presented Lord Baden-Powell with a blow-pipe and a buffalo horn.

The King of Denmark has announced that Scouts of that country may again wear their uniform. A blanket law directed against uniformed political societies for a time prevented the wearing of uniforms by all civil Danish organizations.

Harold Webster, adjudged by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada to have been the Dominion's outstanding athlete in 1934, was formerly Scoutmaster of a Guelph, Ont., Scout troop.
His outstanding feat was the winning of the British Empire Games Marathon in England.

"A remarkably good standard as regards smartness of uniform and equipment, discipline, efficiency and enthusiasm," was Lord Baden-Powell's report after reviewing some 5,200 Malay-an, Chinese, Sikh, Tamil, Japanese and Eurasian Boy Scouts at Singapore and the Straits Settlements.

That he could pick out in the school room boys who had been or were Scouts was the declaration of Principal
J. L. Forster of the Sandwich, Ont., High School, before a gathering of Border Cities Scouters. "In one of my Third Form classes," said the principal, "I was so impressed with the scholastic ability of the boys that I asked those who were Scouts to stand.
All but two arose."

Notice for Scouts and Cubs of Kelowna and District

Scouts and Cubs who might like to attend the expected Rally at Kamloops on the 17th inst. are entitled to purchase a railway ticket to Kamloops and return for one-half the regular fare and, if they are under 12 years of age, for half of that again. On the C.N.R.
that would be $4.70 for those over 12
and $2.35 for those under, from Kelowna. But, to take advantage of this reduction, a certificate has to be handed in when applying for the ticket, of which I have a limited number available for those who require them. First come, first served!

We are still waiting for further information relative to the Rally, but in the meantime Kamloops, who have so kindly offered to billet the visitors, are most anxious to know how many they may expect from each point.

E. C. WEDDELL,
District Commissioner.

FIRST BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE

(Contributed)

The parable of the Sower and the Seed, and the miracles which are recorded in Luke 8, were discussed and studied last Tuesday evening under the capable leadership of the President, Dorothy Derksen and Alice Clement also took part, bringing papers on subjects suggested by the study chapter.
A good turn-out of young people enjoyed the study and remained for light refreshments which were served after the close of the meeting.

With the return of longer days, it has been decided to meet on Thursday evenings at 5.45 for soft-ball, using the field at the corner of Ellis and Harvey Avenue. As "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," you are invited to "brighten up" a bit on Thursdays!

Here's a Bible poser for you! Do you know the answer? We will give it at the head of next week's write-up. A hint: it is found in the New Testament.

LOCOMOTIVES LOCKED IN HEAD-ON CRASH

When two Canadian Pacific Railway trains, a passenger and a freight, crashed together head-on during a snowstorm near London, Ont., eleven persons were injured, most of them passengers in the third car of the westbound train, a local running between Toronto and Detroit. The freight was bound from Windsor to Toronto. The passenger engine is shown on the right. Both locomotives reared up and climbed over their own pony trucks, creating a difficult job for the wrecking crews.

HOME-MADE INDELIBLE METAL LABELS

By D. V. Fisher, Horticulturist, Dominion Experimental Station,
Summerland

(Correspondence relating to this article should be addressed to the writer.)

Many garden enthusiasts experience considerable difficulty in keeping track of the variety names of their different species of flowers. Ordinary wooden labels are often lost, become illegible, or rot away. On the other hand, few amateur gardeners can afford to buy large numbers of enamelled plant labels, even though such labels preserve the inscription satisfactorily.

Any person with a pair of tin shears, a bottle of metallic ink, and a little ingenuity, can make neat and permanent plant labels at a cost of not more than one cent each. Simply go to a tinsmith or a hardware store and purchase a few pounds of scrap galvanized iron.
This can be procured for a few cents a pound and comes in strips of assorted lengths. Then cut these strips into labels 12 or 14 inches long, and an inch wide, and point them at one end for placing in the ground. Take the other end at right angles to the rest of the strip. Then with a "metallic ink" pen write on the overfolded horizontal portion of the label, the name of the plant you desire. The metallic ink is a strong acid which eats into the galvanized label, thereby leaving a black permanent inscription. The label must then be laid aside for a few days to allow the acid to dry. Such labels are of an enduring nature and may be made in spare time. The source of supply of metallic ink may be had upon writing to the Dominion Experimental Station, Summerland, B.C.

GLENMORE

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Scott have moved into the house on the Smith ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Dalglish returned on Monday from Victoria, and adjacent parts of Vancouver Island, where they spent the past month.

An interested audience listened to another presentation of "Jimmy Be Careful," in the School on Thursday night. A comedy-drama in three acts, this play was done very convincingly and in a manner which does credit to Mrs. Humphreys, who directed it, and to Mrs. Granger, who superintended the make-up. The plot centres around the troubles and arguments of four men, the hero, Jimmy, the Italian gardener, Pietro, Uncle Chris, and Willie Blake, when they buy a piece of land, which they shrewdly suspect has oil on it. They attempt to keep their real purpose quiet, and give as their reason that they are going to grow asters.
Ernest Gibson, as Jimmy, the hero, gave a very masterly performance, as did also Frank Snowsall in the role of the Italian, Pietro. Perhaps the best comedy role was that of Peter Ritchie, who played the jovial Uncle Chris.
Another player very much at ease in a good role was Bill Hardie, who took the part of the young brother who torments his sisters with his wise-cracking and snappy come-backs. Myrtle McMillan played the part of the heroine with sincerity and conviction, and Jenny Reid was splendid as the spirited young woman who determines to "love where the money lies." Bob White played the part of the hen-pecked bridegroom very well indeed. Mary Smith, as Tillie, made a very pert little maid, who cast effectively designing eyes on Pietro. Ray Goudie and June Cameron, both playing older parts, gave very realistic presentations of the mother and aunt respectively. Beatrice, and Kermit Estlin delighted the audience before the curtain and between acts with piano duets and solos.

A new house is being built in Glen-more, south-east of Bankhead. The owner is Miss L. Cowan, of Kelowna.

Mr. Archie Rankin has recently purchased a new "Cietrac" tractor and disc.

A tea is to be held at the home of Mrs. R. W. Corner, the proceeds of which are to go to the Hospital. This tea has been postponed since the end of January, first, on account of weather, secondly, on account of measles, and is now set for Tuesday, April the ninth. Every lady is cordially invited, and Mrs. Corner hopes that all who can do so will arrange to be present.

Mr. Morley Griffin, who has been urgently requested by many of the water users of Glenmore to run as Trustee of the Irrigation District at the election to be held on the 20th of this month, has consented to be a candidate for the office.

Many of his supporters believe his attitude as a member of the Water Board will be in harmony with the interests of the individual fruit grower as well as those of the Valley as a whole.

BENVOULIN

The picket party held on Friday turned out quite successfully, although there were only about twenty people present. Interesting games and contests provided the entertainment of the evening. Refreshments were served and the party ended at midnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Parks and daughter have moved into the house on the old Lewis place, and Mr. Walker Robinson is going to occupy their former home on Mr. Coelen's property.

TOO LATE

"I've come," said the woman politician, "to ask you to support me." "I'm sorry, miss," replied the man, "but you're too late. I've been married for years."

ENGLAND will be gay with pageantry, colourful with visitors from all parts of the Empire. Enjoy the many special events!

DOCTOR SAID SHE NEEDED "BULK" FOR HER CONSTIPATION*

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief to Mrs. Manceley

Read the following unsolicited letter:

"Up to five years ago, I knew no end of suffering caused by constipation." I used all kinds of laxatives but only found relief till I got used to them. My physician told me to get some Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and instructed me how to use it.

"I did just as I was told by my doctor, and today I send my highest praise for what your ALL-BRAN has done for me."—Mrs. Jas.
Manceley, Jr. Address upon request.

*Due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to help overcome common constipation. It is also a good source of vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" of ALL-BRAN is often more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. If not corrected this way, see your doctor.

Isn't this food much pleasanter and safer than risking patent medicines? Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

FROM ROME TO LAND OF PHAROHS

Clown Hero Of "Roman Scandals"
Now Central Figure Of "Kid Millions"

Eddie Cantor, banjo-eyed clown who last year captivated among chariots and lions in the Rome of the Caesars, invades the land of the camels and the pyramids in "Kid Millions," which opens at the Empress today and will run until the end of the week. The comedian's fifth annual screen musical extravaganza introduces him as a black sheep of the Brooklyn waterfront who inherits a fortune in buried treasure and travels to Egypt to claim it, with Ann Southern, Ethel Merman, George Murphy and Block and Sully lending romance and hilarity to the proceedings.

Tuneful song bits and gorgeous girls combine to make a film packed with entertainment of the Cantor variety.

"What Every Woman Knows"
After an absence of more than a year,
Helen Hayes has returned to the screen to score another personal triumph.

Her latest picture, "What Every Woman Knows," the famous romance by Sir James Barrie, comes to the theatre on Monday and Tuesday.

The notable cast includes Brian Aherne, as John Shand; Madge Evans, as Lady Sibyl; and Lucille Watson, as the "love adviser" Countess. Others in the supporting cast include Dudley Digges, Donald Crisp, David Torrence,
Henry Stephenson and Boyd Irwin.

The plot concerns the efforts of a retiring but capable Scottish woman (Helen Hayes) to find romance, although handicapped by what she calls
"lack of charm."

"Behold My Wife"
The dramatic story of revenge that turns into genuine love is the underlying theme of "Behold My Wife," starring Sylvia Sydney, with Gene Raymond in support, and coming to the theatre on Wednesday and Thursday.

The picture, which presents Miss Sydney as a beautiful full-blooded Indian girl, has backgrounds in colourful New Mexico and sophisticated New York.

"Behold My Wife" presents a dramatic and surprising climax to an unusual story.

GOOD DEMAND FOR HORSES ON VANCOUVER ISLAND

According to reports to the Dominion Department of Agriculture, the horse business on Vancouver Island is brisk, with a demand in every district for farm and logging purposes. At a sale south of Nanaimo on February 20th, yearling colts sold for $75 each.

Farmers and the Island do not prefer horses from the Interior, as these animals are not usually quiet enough for the small farmers who have tree stumps to contend with.

According to the third and latest computation, the Canadian wheat crop for 1934 is now estimated at 275,849, 000 bushels. The revised estimate for 1933 is 281,892,000 bushels. The 1934 potato crop is now placed at 48,095,000 cwt., compared with 42,745,000 cwt. in 1933.

EX-PR' SIDENT OF CUBA
IN EXILE

Mr. Hasebe, who is quite an old timer in the district, left on Friday, March 22nd, for Kelowna, where he is going to stay for a few weeks before leaving for Japan with his family. His many friends in the district wish him "bon voyage" and good luck in his mother land.

A Summerland girls basketball team visited Westbank on Monday night of last week, and, in spite of the fact that the Westbank girls have only played twice this season, and two of their best players are away, they had a good game, the result being 11 to 9 in favour of Summerland. A team of Peachland girls also came up and played Summerland.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Community Hall on Tuesday afternoon, with a splendid attendance of members and friends.

Mr. R. J. McDougall, editor of the Penticton Herald, gave a good address on "Does Education Pay?"

It was arranged to revive the Institute scrap book under the auspices of the Current Events Committee.

Tea was served.

Mrs. Hoskins arranged a court whist drive in the Community Hall on Wednesday night, March 27th. There was a jolly crowd present, nine tables were filled and a good supper was served.

The proceeds are for the Gordon
Campbell Preventorium at Kelowna.
The winners of the prizes were: first,
Miss Leslie and Mr. A. Johnson; second,
Miss Olive Hewlett and Mr.
Don MacDonald. Mr. Andy Duzsik won the well worked cross stitch cushion given by Mrs. W. J. Stevens.

Approximately 15,000,000 barrels of wheat flour are manufactured annually in Canada, besides many other kinds of flour, such as potato, corn, buckwheat, barley and rye. The consumption of flour in Canada averages one barrel per year per head of population. Canadian flour is exported to all parts of the world, principally to the British Isles.

The cast of the play "Jimmy be Careful" added another triumph to their string of successes, when they presented the play at Glenmore on Thursday evening of last week. Due to the epidemic of measles, there was not a big audience, but those who did attend seemed to enjoy the performance as there was plenty of applause.

The "Young Players" received over $5 as their share of the proceeds, and the $20 that they received went to their exchequer also, not to the United Church, as previously stated.

As a "wind up," the members of the cast were the guests of Mrs. A. N.
Humphreys at an informal supper on Saturday evening. The daintily prepared supper was arranged in the kitchen, and the couples, helped themselves
"cafeteria style" to what they wanted, returning to the dining room.

The "men-folk" then washed up, and everybody adjourned to the second show at the Theatre! Following the performance, the cast were the guests of Mrs. C. L. Granger at home, who served delicious refreshments.

We take this opportunity of congratulating the cast and Mrs. A. N. Humphreys for the splendid work done on the play.

On Thursday evening the members of the Badminton Club, with their friends as guests, held a "wind up" party in the local hall. The guests were entertained with badminton, bridge and ping-pong, which were followed by delicious refreshments.

Several local residents attended the April 1st Fancy Dress Dance at East Kelowna, and managed to bring home
the majority of the prizes. Mrs. A. N.
Humphreys, Messrs. Frank Hawkey and Angus Harrison were the lucky prize winners.

The members of the Ladies Welfare Club held a very enjoyable card party in the small hall on Monday evening.
The room was prettily decorated with daffodils and narcissi. There was a good crowd of people, who played bridge and 500. The first prizes were awarded to Messrs. Easton and Geo.
Reith, while the consolation prizes were won by Mrs. E. Mugford and Miss C. Stafford. The proceeds of this affair will be used for materials for the Club's sewing bees for the Hospital and the Preventorium.

The regular monthly meeting of the local A. O. T. S. club will be held in the Rutland United Church on Monday, April 8th. The meeting will commence with a supper at 6.30 sharp, and will be followed by the regular business part of the meeting. All men are cordially invited to attend.

COOL TEMPERATURE BEST FOR STORAGE OF HONEY

Research experiments have shown that the original quality, flavour and colour of honey in storage can best be maintained at a temperature of 40 degrees Fahrenheit, or lower, and that rapid deterioration takes place at 60 degrees Fahrenheit. If the temperature is low and constant, extracted honey can be stored indefinitely without change of colour or flavour and without fermentation.

PEAS, PLEASE!

NEVER in this world could the contents of a can of Peas be brought to your table for such a few cents, if it were necessary to hand-pick the pods.
Great fields of a special variety of Peas are mowed and threshed so delicately that every pea in every test pod is kept in perfect condition. Thorough washing in the Royal City Kitchens and then they are graded into five sizes so that the home-maker need simply ask for a tin of Royal City Peas of the size exactly suited to her requirements.

Sizes 5 and 4, the larger peas, are excellent for the daily home meals in any style. Size 3 is ideal for general serving as a side dish, and sizes 2 and 1 are for special occasions when a fine garnishing is desired.
All Peas, packed with the Royal City label, are tender and tasty.

CREAM AND CUSTARD PIES

Some Delectable Recipes

At this time of year when many fresh fruits are out of season in Canada, cream and custard pies will undoubtedly be frequently made in homes where pie is a favourite dessert. When serving either cream or custard pie, both of which contain milk and eggs, there is the satisfaction of knowing that pies of this type will add materially to the nutritive value as well as the enjoyment of the meal. The following recipes are recommended by the Dominion Department of Agriculture:

Cream Pie

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup cold milk
1 1/2 cups hot milk
2 egg yolks
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 egg whites
3 tablespoons fruit sugar
Pinch of salt

Mix together the sugar, flour and salt. Combine with the cold milk. Stir into hot milk and cook in double boiler about 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Beat egg yolks, combine with a little of the hot mixture and add to mixture in double boiler. Cook three minutes. Remove from heat and add flavouring. Pour into baked pie shell. Beat egg whites until stiff, add the sugar gradually and spread the meringue over filling. Bake in a slow oven (325° F.) about 15 minutes, or until delicately browned.

Chocolate Cream Pie

Follow recipe for Cream Pie. Melt two squares unsweetened chocolate, grated, with the milk. Beat with Dover beater. Use 3/4 cup sugar.

Coffee Cream Pie

Follow recipe for Cream Pie. Add three tablespoons coffee to the milk and bring to boiling point. Let stand 10 minutes. Strain.

Butterscotch Pie

Follow recipe for Cream Pie, increasing butter to two tablespoons, and using one cup brown sugar. Melt butter and blend with sugar, and add to hot milk.

Fruit Cream Pie

Follow recipe for Cream Pie. When filling is cooked, add half cup chopped dates or one cup chopped fresh or cooked fruit.

Custard Pie

3 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 1/2 cups hot milk
1 teaspoon vanilla or few grating nutmeg
Beat eggs slightly. Add sugar, salt and flavouring, then milk gradually. Strain and pour into pie plate lined with pastry. Bake in hot oven (350° F.) for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 325° F. and bake until custard is set—about 25 minutes.

Fruit Custard Pie

Follow recipe for Custard Pie. When pie has cooled, spread sweetened sliced fruit over filling and cover with whipped cream.

Caramel Custard Pie

Follow recipe for Custard Pie, melting the sugar in a frying pan, then adding it to the hot milk.

Apple Custard Pie

Place a layer of slightly sweetened apple sauce, flavoured with cinnamon, in bottom of pie shell. Pour over this the custard mixture.

Cocoanut Custard Pie

Follow recipe for Custard Pie, adding half cup shredded cocoanut to custard mixture.

Maple Custard Pie

Follow recipe for Custard Pie, using half cup maple syrup or grated maple sugar instead of the sugar.

Date Custard Pie

1/2 cup chopped dates
2 cups milk
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla or 1 teaspoon lemon juice
Cook dates and milk together in top of double boiler until dates are soft. Rub through sieve. Combine with beaten eggs, salt and vanilla. Pour into pie plate lined with pastry and bake as Custard Pie.

BETTER PRICES FOR FRUIT

Now that the marketing control plan of the B. C. Tree Fruit Board has received endorsement by the overwhelming vote of 1,472 to 55, the Board should feel encouraged to stiffen its backbone and hold out for better returns to the growers than were obtained last year.

The slogan of 1933, "A Cent a Pound or on the Ground," while it had a material effect in effecting solidarity of the growers against further reckless slaughtering of their fruit by the shippers in internecine warfare, caused almost irreparable damage on the prairies by creating a widely prevalent false impression as to the cost of growing fruit. The success achieved by the growers in bringing the shippers to terms led to the belief generally on the prairies that a cent a pound covered the cost of production, which is far from the truth. If the slogan had been "Two Cents a Pound or on the Ground," it would have represented a living price to the grower and one that would spell continuity and prosperity for the industry.

Granted that some benefit has accrued from the control effected last year, it has to go a long way further to bring about such a condition of solvency that no longer will growers have to plead that they are without funds to meet their water rates and taxes or to give their orchards the full degree of care they should receive in spraying, fertilization and other respects. So long as the cost of production, plus a reasonable profit, is not received, thus long will growers be placed in the shameful position of begging off their lawful obligations on the ground of poverty.

If there are too many intermediate hands grabbing for a share of the spread between the grower and the consumer, the number of such hands must be reduced, the channels of distribution must be simplified and unnecessary parasitical profit-takers eliminated. The day must pass when all the real profit in handling fruit is earned by shippers and middlemen, and the growers must have their legitimate share—which should be the largest. This should be the principal objective upon which the Marketing Board should concentrate its efforts this year. To have effected wider distribution is an achievement in itself, but it means little to the grower to furnish profits for shippers, transportation companies, brokers, wholesalers and retailers, unless there is a worth while residuum for himself.

SNEEZING

"Never backfire a sneeze—and don't turn your nose into a popgun when you blow, if you would be healthy." This is the advice of an English medical woman, Dr. Octavia Lewin, who addressed a group of nurses recently.

In other words, if you feel like sneezing, sneeze—and don't let politeness or the conventions or anything interfere. But it's still a good idea to sneeze into a handkerchief if you are quick enough on the draw.

There are a variety of sneezes, ranging from the falsetto to a reverberating crescendo. Some are staccato, ephemeral; others are protracted convulsions that shake the topknot intermittently, with a breezy fervour.

POINTS OF VIEW

FEWER DEATHS UNDER STRESS

(Victoria Times)

One of the oddest things about the depression is the fact that the death rate has been falling. When people are going hungry and are unable to pay for medical care, you would expect more of them to die; on the contrary, in such a representative state, for example, as New York, the death rate has dropped from 12.4 per 1000 inhabitants in 1929 to 11.1 in 1934.

The chief explanation, according to Dr. J. V. de Perte, of the New York State Health Department, is fairly simple. It is, he says, "the fact that state and federal governments have assumed ever-greater responsibility for maintaining life among the millions of unemployed and their families."

A sharp commentary on society—the fact that so many people get better attention when they are broke than they do when they are self-supporting.

NOT UNSURMOUNTABLE

(Nelson Daily News)

The career of the late Prof. Michael J. Pupin, who came to the United States as a boy, is abundant proof that humble birth is no unsurmountable obstacle to success. Young Pupin was a Hungarian peasant youth when he ventured across the sea.

He became one of the world's best-known scientists. His inventions in the fields of the X-ray, telephony, and radio were used all over the earth. This continent gave him his finest fruit—the chance to develop and use to the utmost the potentialities that Providence had given him. The opportunities that Professor Pupin made such good use of still exist today on this continent, if young men have the initiative to make use of them.

ONE CAUSE OF UNEMPLOYMENT

(London Advertiser)

This condition, says Mayor Houde, is the product and penalty of an era and policy of over-industrialization, which have thrown the economic forces of the country out of equilibrium. The census of 1901 showed that in Quebec the rural population was 66.43 per cent of the total in the province, and the urban proportion 33.57 per cent. In 1931, according to the Dominion census, the rural proportion of Quebec was 36.90 per cent and the urban 63.10. This revolution has occurred during the present century, even in a province in which the rural element is deeply attached to the soil. Mayor Houde thinks the remedy is the return to the land of unemployed heads of families who came from it.

IN SELF-DEFENCE

(Hamilton Spectator)

A thousand Father Coughlins will not keep the United States for ever from co-operation with the rest of the western nations. She may refuse to co-operate with the world for peace, but co-operate one day she will, in self-defence. While Father Coughlin rants at a shadow, a peril more formidable, and threatening the very existence of our western civilization, is rising in the East. If it is not quickly dispersed by co-operation, its dispersion may soon be found impracticable. Father Coughlin fails to perceive this because he lacks vision and width of mind. His attention is directed upon the class struggle of Marx.

TOO SMALL TO BE A PROVINCE

(Border Cities Star)

While fair-minded persons will, of course, have every sympathy for the people of Prince Edward Island in the pressing of all reasonable claims for greater financial recognition from Ottawa, it seems to us that the Premier's words (that there is not sufficient revenue to carry on government) offer the best possible backing for a contention that has been advanced in these columns on more than one occasion, namely, that Prince Edward Island, with its population of approximately 80,000, has no right to exist as a province.

FARMERS ENTITLED TO ANNUAL HOLIDAY

Plucky Wives And Daughters Especially Deserving Of Consideration

"There is a good case for suggesting that every farmer and his family are entitled to a short holiday each year. In evidence given recently before the Royal Commission on Wheat Farming in Australia, many farmers spoke of the courageous support which had been afforded to them in their fight with adversity by their wives and daughters, and the Commission feels that special reference should be made to the part which women are playing in maintaining the industry during the time of depression. On the average, their work is harder than that of their sisters in the city, and the activities of various organizations in the different States of the Commonwealth should have wider support in order that the home life of the wheat farmer can be improved."

The above extract from the report of the Royal Commission in Australia applies with equal force to the women on Canadian farms.

But all are sneezes, and they must have an outlet when occasion demands. Even Aristotle had a good word for the sneeze, for the old Greek philosopher wrote: "Salute the sneeze and honour the brain."

MERRY-GO-ROUND

With R. M. R.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

For a long time I have been looking for an appropriate name for this column. I have refrained from asking for suggestions from any one who glances down this space occasionally for fear that "Hokey" or "Bunkum" would lead all the rest.

Several years ago I began under the heading of "Kelo Ker's Column," Kelo Ker being coined from a syllable here and there of Kelowna Courier. From a spasmodic beginning, the thing became a regular habit. All went well for a year or two until I decided that a self-respecting columnist shouldn't hide behind a nom de plume, so I changed to "Yesterday, Today And Tomorrow" and stuck my initials below it.

After a few weeks of this, I concluded that, as an introduction to these weird ramblings, it was inexpensive and cumbersome. So another change was made, this time to "Orchard Run," adopting a heading that had been used off and on in the editorial columns during the days of the war, when the editor was away. This seemed appropriate enough in the fruit belt, but I have since discovered that a surprising number of people are not familiar with the meaning of the term, which loosely is "fruit language" for a jumble rack.

So, if I get past the editor, I am going to make another change—and the last—for I think that in "Merry-Go-Round" I have hit upon an excellent main head. The world is a merry-go-round of events, and this column has followed them in merry-go-round fashion. So why shouldn't we admit it for all time and continue our merry-go-round in the world's circus, with our labels all in order?

WHY WAIT UNTIL HE'S DEAD?

Those of us who write your obituary when you are no more, invariably succumb to the temptation to say something good about you, now that you are out of the way for all time. We forget your peccadilloes—cast aside every annoying idiosyncrasy that was yours—and spread ourselves on your better qualities, often—and excusably—magnifying them beyond recognition.

But no matter how far the obituary writer stretches the truth, he usually can find foundation for saying nice things about most everybody. With all his faults, every man has his good qualities. We make the mistake of not searching for them until he is dead. While he is alive, he is just another subject for criticism.

The man or woman who plugs along as best he can, doing nothing spectacular in our little world but meeting his daily obstacles with a quiet courage, without back-slapping or hullabaloo, is often a greater hero than the man who spans the ocean by air or who deliberately puts himself in the way of physical danger. Spectacular daring has its reward in public acclaim, but in a great many cases it requires less real courage than that demanded to meet the drab adversities faced day by day by the plodder.

So it is, while we are feeling at peace with the world for this brief moment—while the aura of good fellowship hovers over us with this momentary promise of spring, we bring to you a poem. It is a poem that says nothing about spring, consequently it strikes deeper than the common or garden variety of verse that is hatched persistently at this season of the year. Here it is:

If with pleasure you are viewing
Any work a man is doing,
If you like him or you love him
Tell him now.
Don't withhold your admiration
Till the parson makes oration
And he lies with snowy lilies o'er his brow.
For no matter how you shout it
He won't really care about it.
Since thought and care from his fine mind have fled.
If you think some praise is due him,
Now's the time to tell it to him.
For he cannot read his tombstone
when he's dead.

DUFF AND THE PRESS

The ire of Mr. Pattullo has been aroused. And when he seizes Duff, it makes a thorough job of it.

Mr. Pattullo was forced to reply to the almost universal criticism hurled at him from all parts of the provincial compass on the Fraser River bridge question. So he went on the air and told the daily press what he thought of it.

He didn't say anything about the weeklies, probably because they can give vent to their convictions only once in every seven days, whereas the Province and the Sun, for instance, are in a position to carry on a thunderous continuity six days out of every seven. And six days of adverse criticism is bound to make anybody sore.

But at this point we reach the parting of the ways—the statesman going one way, the politician the other. How

Messrs. Harold and Claude McClure returned on Tuesday from a holiday trip to Windsor, Ontario, where "Mac" McClure, a member of the staff of Orchard City Motors, inspected the Ford factory. They made the return trip by motor car through the United States.

Messrs. J. B. Spurrier, O. Jennens and F. W. Pridham left at the week-end for Little River on a fishing trip. While low temperatures still prevail, it is reported that the party have been fairly successful with rod and reel. They are expected to return home this afternoon.

The Okanagan Valley Musical Festival Association definitely announces that the Festival will be held on May 30th and 31st and June 1st, by which time it is hoped that the various malady with which Kelowna has been afflicted will be removed. The entry list has been re-opened, and will not close again until May 15. Entries are accepted with ordinary fee. Further particulars will be announced later.

The engagement is announced of Jean Madeline, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barr Hall, of Princeton, and a graduate of Kelowna General Hospital, to Mr. Leonard (Len) Backler, of the Provincial Police, Kelowna, eldest son of Engineer-Captain Leonard Backler, R.N.R., and Mrs. Backler, 768 Newport Avenue, Oak Bay. The wedding will take place at the Anglican Church, Princeton, on April 23, at 3 p.m.

At the Live Stock Show, held at Kamloops last week, the Okanagan Loan & Investment Trust Co., of Kelowna, captured several prizes for fat cattle from their property in the Elliott district, known for many years as the Simpson Ranch. They were awarded second and fourth prizes for carlot of fat stock and fifth and eighth prizes for group of five animals. Their carlots of fifteen animals weighed 16,170 and 18,320 pounds respectively, and their groups of five, 5,000 and 4,960 pounds respectively.

LAUREL WALKS OUT ON HARDY

Stan Laurel will no longer stand for Oliver Hardy's antics, according to Hollywood, which announces the team has split. Disagreement about screen story matters was given by Producer Hal Roach as the reason. Above we see Laurel giving Hardy the "go-by," dismissing him with a pointed gesture, a picture which assumes special significance in view of the reported break. Plans for the "Hollywood Twin's" next feature, Laurel and Hardy in India, are now held up.

BARGAIN RAILWAY FARES TO PRAIRIES

Low Rates Available For Limited Period

Bargain trip fares from British Columbia points to the prairies will be on sale at Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways offices from April 15th to April 21st, inclusive, according to a joint announcement made by the two railways.

These low fare tickets will have a return limit of twenty-one days, exclusive of date of sale, and will be good for stopovers at Jasper and Banff.

This attractive travel offering will be on a cent-a-mile basis for coach travel. It will also be possible to buy tickets good in tourist sleepers for one and one-quarter cents a mile, and in standard sleepers for one and one-half cents a mile, plus the regular charge for berths.

Tickets will be on sale at all stations in B.C. as far east as Blue River and McBride, on the Canadian National, and Revelstoke and Nelson, on the Canadian Pacific, also from Victoria, Nanaimo and other Vancouver Island points, to all stations in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Western Ontario as far east as Armstrong, Fort William and Port Arthur.

PROBE OF ACCOUNTS AT VERNON COURT HOUSE

Reported That Government Auditor Brings To Light Irregularities

While there have been no official statements, neither denials nor confirmations, it is understood that an investigation is being conducted into some of the accounts of the public office at the Court House, says The Vernon News.

George Marshall, of Victoria, Auditor of Revenue for the British Columbia Department of Finance, arrived in the city on Friday and it is said that some defalcations have come to light. It is also understood that one of the clerks in the general office has been suspended pending a complete report on the situation.

The alleged shortages were unearthed, it is believed, when it was found that the receipts for the collection of the one per cent. tax at Kelowna had not been issued at the government office here.

MUCH SKILL NECESSARY FOR SUCCESS IN FARMING

Judgment And Managerial Capacity As Well As Manual Dexterity

There is no question that the farmer's occupation is a skilled one. Many city dwellers have little idea of the amount of skill and detailed knowledge necessary for success in farming. This skill must take several forms. There is the manual dexterity and mechanical sense needed for operating both ordinary and modern farm machinery, and the knowledge required in dealing with horses and stock. And above all there is the judgment which decides the right moment to carry out this or that operation on any particular area of soil, and the managerial capacity to arrange operations and material efficiently. The degree of forethought and skill demanded is much higher than is expected of the ordinary recipient of the basic wage for unskilled labour. From the report of the Royal Commission on the wheat industry in Australia.

CREATOR OF BRITISH FILM INDUSTRY DIES POOR MAN

LONDON, April 4.—The man who put the British film industry on its feet in the face of heavy competition from the United States, is dead here in comparative poverty. George Ridgwell helped to build the present industry, which spends $20,000,000 annually and employs 20,000 persons, yet found a job for himself with great difficulty. Ridgwell began an agitation twelve years ago which led to the Film Act of 1927, compelling a quota of British films at every performance of moving pictures, but in the magnificent British studios he helped to create he managed to get only small jobs and those with difficulty.

DON'T FORGET—HOSPITAL EGG WEEK, April 8-13

HOSPITAL EGG WEEK

Will Be Observed This Year From April 8th To 13th

The annual Egg Week for the Kelowna General Hospital has been set for next week, April 8th to 13th.

This has been a yearly feature for many years. During Egg Week, when eggs are at their cheapest, the Hospital stores away the donations for the winter. The public is given the opportunity to show in a practical way its appreciation of the work of the Hospital by generous donations during Egg Week.

Through the courtesy of Manager W. Maddin, an Egg Matinee will be given at the Empress Theatre, the date of which will be announced later in the week. These matinees have been held with great success for the past two years, over three hundred dozen eggs having been received last year. The price of admission will be the same as last year—one dozen eggs for adults and a half-dozen for children. The Kelowna Hospital Women's Auxiliary will be in charge at the door, and it is hoped that last year's total will be exceeded.

The Hospital Board and Women's Auxiliary are hopeful that this will be a bumper year for eggs for the Hospital. Any grocery store will receive and deliver eggs, or they can be left at the Hospital.

As a result of the first year's operation of the Grade A1 policy of the Dominion Department of Agriculture for eggs, 540 farms have been approved, upwards of 50,000 cases marketed, and a premium of approximately $90,000 returned to the producers. Grade A1 eggs are produced on farms approved by the Dominion Minister of Agriculture.

The total number of pedigree certificates registered by the Canadian National Live Stock Records, approved by the Dominion Minister of Agriculture, for the month of February, 1935, was 6,916, as against 6,449 for February, 1934. (Horses numbered 228; cattle, 2,111; sheep, 481; swine, 450; dogs, 529; foxes, 2,926; poultry 190, and one goat.

COMMERCIAL CLASSES COMPLETE WINTER TERM

Night School In Junior High Accomplished Good Work Under Mr. And Mrs. G. D. Herbert

The commercial classes that had been conducted in the Junior High School under the supervision of the Kelowna School Board for the past three months were brought to a close with examinations in the subjects taught, on Thursday and Friday evenings last. The total enrolment reached 43, with an average attendance of approximately 34. Students ranged in age from 18 to 60, and were drawn from a territory 25 miles in length, i.e., from Winfield to Okanagan Mission. The subjects taught were typewriting, shorthand and bookkeeping, each student being allowed to take two subjects only. Thirty-five enrolled for bookkeeping, forty for typewriting and eleven for shorthand.

In typewriting the students have all acquired the fundamental principles and technique of touch typewriting. Those who have had opportunity to practice outside of class hours have attained a fair amount of facility. On the examination held at the end of the term, eleven students secured a speed of 20 words per minute or better on a paragraph. The highest rate for a student who had not had previous tuition, but who had a practice typewriter, was secured by Mr. Charles Dore with a rate of 25 words per minute with two errors; while the highest rate for a student who had not had previous tuition, and had only the practice secured in the regular classes, was secured by Miss Catherine Aikman with a speed of 19.3 words per minute and no errors on a paragraph.

In the subject of shorthand, the time was really too short to cover even half the fundamental principles of the system. The male members of the class discontinued this work, but very satisfactory progress was made by the four ladies who stayed with it, though, at best, it was only possible to get well-launched into the subject.

In bookkeeping, the text-book "Canadian Modern Accounting," Part I, by Sprout and Short, was used. About three-quarters of the work, as outlined in this text, was covered by the majority of the bookkeeping students. The arrangements for this course were made by Mr. C. J. Frederickson, Principal of Kelowna Junior High School; the Kelowna School Board offered the building with any incidental expense in connection therewith; the Department of Education met part of the teachers' salaries, as set forth under the Night School Regulations of this province; the students paid a small fee; Herbert's Business College supplied ten typewriters each evening; Mr. Gordon D. Herbert had charge of the bookkeeping, and Mrs. Herbert of the shorthand and typewriting.

Despite the late start in organizing the night classes in commercial work, the response far exceeded expectations in size of enrolment and depth of interest. The classes closed March 31st, but plans for larger classes and more varied courses to start in October are already under way.

OKANAGAN MISSION

There will be Sunday School, as usual, at 10 a.m. on Sunday next. Mr. Bowley, of the British and Foreign Bible Society, will speak to the children on the work of that organization. All others who are interested are also cordially invited to attend.

Don't forget the Village Club's novel fancy dress dance, which is to take place in the Bellevue Hall on Friday, April 5th, at 9 p.m.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held at Mrs. Johns' home last Tuesday afternoon. There was quite a large attendance. Mrs. E. Murdoch gave a very interesting address on a trip to Labrador and the life of the Eskimoes in the far north.

It is a good sign that spring is just around the corner when one sees the local irrigation companies getting their water systems under good repair in preparation for the coming season. Present indications predict a very plentiful supply of irrigation water for this year.

The Mission bay should present a fine spectacle this summer, as we are given to understand, on good authority, that three more sailing craft, now under construction, will be launched there this spring.

We were very sorry to hear that Mrs. R. L. Goldsmith has had to postpone her trip to England on account of having to undergo an operation for appendicitis. The latest reports are that she is progressing favourably, and we hope that she will be around again soon.

PRUNING THE PRUNE

By J. E. Britton, Assistant Superintendent, Dominion Experimental Station, Summerland

(Correspondence relating to this article should be addressed to the writer.)

Pruning operations serve a definite purpose, and are expected to yield certain desired results. Pruning is a part of the cultural practice and all cultural factors are more or less complementary to each other. There is no hard and fast rule to follow, but two conditions must be considered: the health and thriftiness of the tree, and its characteristic habit of growth.

The Italian prune is by far the most important variety grown in British Columbia. This article refers particularly to that variety but also applies to many other varieties of prunes and plums. Experimental results and observations regarding the behaviour of prune trees at the Summerland Experimental Station have pointed out most desirable methods in the culture of this fruit.

Italian prune trees naturally grow to a compact form and comparatively small size. When fruit production is well established, frame-work branches make slow growth but develop many small fruiting branches and twigs. These twigs are sensitive to shade and may be killed out if a dense growth precludes sunlight. Therefore, it is necessary to allow sufficient light to the fruit wood, and to encourage extended growth in the main branches.

Trees that have been regularly "long-pruned" up to seven years of age, have produced 67 per cent more fruit than have "short-pruned" trees. The long pruning consists of a selection of branches to form the frame-work without any cutting back. Where advisable to depress growth of a branch to make it subordinate to the limb, it should be cut back to a lateral, if possible. Sufficient thinning out of branches is important. Too many main branches in a tree is the same as too many trees in an acre, or too many onions in a row. The long-pruned trees were larger at seven years of age and had more years of bearing to their credit.

Older trees require somewhat more drastic treatment. Heavy production slows down new wood growth and results in small fruits. This may be corrected by heading-back into two or three-year wood in order to produce more extensive terminal growth. This more extensive terminal growth, by treatment should be supplemented by thorough spur-pruning (removing a-bout a quarter to half of the older spurs). The crop is thus thinned by pruning and new fruiting wood growth is encouraged.

Pruning alone will not revive old trees, nor does it maintain vigour and results in small fruits. This may be corrected by heading-back into two or three-year wood in order to produce more extensive terminal growth. This more extensive terminal growth, by treatment should be supplemented by thorough spur-pruning (removing a-bout a quarter to half of the older spurs). The crop is thus thinned by pruning and new fruiting wood growth is encouraged.

MAKING A ROCK GARDEN

By A. Hornby, Head Gardener, Dominion Experimental Station, Summerland

(Correspondence relating to this article should be addressed to the writer.)

When commencing to build a rockery, it is well to bear in mind that the rocks needed for the purpose are only the means to an end. They are not placed primarily for their own intrinsic beauty, but for the purpose of providing cool, moist soil conditions so necessary for the well-being of rock-loving plants. It is not of vast importance what kind of rock is used, but it is well to avoid smoothly round stones, as they give the rockery an altogether too formal appearance. The angular rocks found on the hillsides and canyons of the Okanagan Valley are ideal material for the construction of rockeries. As to size, it is obvious that the larger the rock, so much holder is the effect. Use as large rocks as can be conveniently handled. In this phase of the work, energy and enthusiasm are two great helpmates and anyone having these is well on the road to success.

A good open gravel soil is the best medium for building up the base of the rockery and raising it above the ground level. If there is a natural bank which needs clothing, so much the better.

In spite of the fact that we are now in the month of April, the weather still keeps cold, the minimum temperature a few nights ago being only twelve above zero.

THEY'RE here . . . and they're the most spectacular new cars that motordom has produced in many a year . . . the brilliant new 1935 Studebaker Champions!

They introduce motoring's first 100% comfort ride—a smoother, more restful, more completely relaxed ride for all passengers, front and rear, than even the proudest, comfiest, 142-inch wheelbase cars have ever offered.

They're big, roomy, beautifully upholstered and appointed Studebakers—longer inside as well as outside . . . featuring a dramatic new skyway silhouette exterior that is styling's last word.

These new Studebakers stand up under "third degree" tests that would shamelessly show up any other car. Studebaker's exclusive new planar principle of wheel suspension, spring articulation and automatic ride control smooth the irregularities of the roughest, toughest roads. They're miracles of handling ease as well as riding ease—sensations of stamina, power and operating economy. The cost of owning one of these Studebaker Champions of 1935 is but a few dollars more than the very lowest price cars . . . and look what you get!

Come in and go out for a Studebaker "third degree" road test today.

GUILD OF HEALTH

DOES PRAYER INFLUENCE GOD?

In answer to the above question, I quote the following passages:—"Call unto Me, and I will answer thee, and will show thee great things, and difficult, that thou knowest not." Jer. 33: 3.

"Call upon Me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee and thou shalt glorify Me." Psalm 50: 15.

"Ask and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you." Matt. 7: 7.

So prayer does influence God, according to His own promise. Two things are necessary:—Whatsoever ye shall ask in My Name, believing, ye shall have. We must ask in Christ's Name and we must have faith.

WITNESS FOR THE DEFENCE

The court—this was in England—was silent except for the clear-cut tones of defending counsel. Everyone hung on his words, and many thought that he would easily win his case.

"And now, gentlemen of the jury, he began to wind up. 'I ask you: Where could the prisoner have hidden the watch? Not in his pocket. The constable has already told you that the man was searched. Not in his shoes—the watch was too large. Then where was it hidden?'

He paused dramatically for effect, and during the pause the prisoner ventured: "Please, sir, I put it under my 'at."

It is easy to say how we love new friends, and what we think of them, but words can never trace out all the fibres that knit us to the old.—George Eliot.

HEAVY WEATHER

By P. G. WODEHOUSE
World-Famous British Humorist

CHAPTER XIII

Darkness had fallen on Blandings Castle, the soft, caressing darkness that closes in like a velvet curtain at the end of a summer day. Now slept the crimson petals and the white. Owls hunted in the shadows. Bushes rustled as the small creatures of the night went about their mysterious business. The scent of the wet earth mingled with the fragrance of stock and wallflower. Bats whirled against the starlit sky, and moths blundered in and out of the shaft of golden light that shone from the window of the dining room. It was the hour when men forget their troubles about the friendly board.

But troubles like those now weighing upon the inmates of Blandings Castle are not to be purged by meat and drink. The soup had come and gone. The coffee had come and gone. But still there hung over the long table a fog-like pall of gloom. Of all those silent diners, not one but had his hidden care. Even Lord Emsworth, who was not easily depressed, found his meal entirely spoiled by the fact that it was being shared by Sir Gregory Parsloe.

As for Sir Gregory himself, the news communicated to him over the telephone by Lady Constance Keeble an hour before had been enough to ruin a dozen dinners. His might have been as his willon playmate, the Hon. Galahad Threewood, had made so abundantly clear in Chapters Four, Seven, Eleven, Eighteen and Twenty-Four of his immortal work, a frivolous youth, but in his late fifties he was taking life extremely seriously. Very earnest was his wish to represent the Unionist Party as their member for the Bridgeford and Shilley Parliamentary Division of Shropshire, and if Pilbeam filled his throat with that infernal manuscript to Lord Tilbury, his chances of doing so would be simply nil. He knew that local committee. Once let the story of the prawns appear in print, and they would drop him like a hot brick.

He had come tonight to reason with Pilbeam, to plead with him, to appeal to Pilbeam's better feelings, if such existed. And, dash it, there was no Pilbeam to be reasoned with, to be pleaded with, or to be appealed to.

Where was the damn fellow?

The same question was torturing Lady Constance. Where was Pilbeam? Could he have gone straight to Lord Tilbury after taking his zigzag departure from the drawing-room?

It was Lord Emsworth who put the question into words. For some moments he had been staring down the table over the top of his crooked pince-nez in a puzzled manner, like that of a cat trying to run over the muster roll of its kittens.

"Beach!"

"M'lord?" said the careworn man hollowly. Foxes were gnawing at Beach's vitals too.

"Beach, I can't see Mr. Pilbeam. Can you see Mr. Pilbeam, Beach? He doesn't seem to be here."

"Mr. Pilbeam is in his bedchamber, m'lord. He informed the footman who knocked at the door with his hot water, that he would not be among those present at dinner, m'lord, owing to a headache."

The Hon. Galahad endorsed this: "I knocked at the door just before the dressing gong, and he said he was going to sleep."

"You didn't go in?"

"No."

"You should have gone in, Galahad. The poor fellow may be feeling unwell."

"Not so unwell as he would have felt if I could have got in."

"You think you would have made his headache worse?"

"A good deal worse," said the Hon. Galahad, taking a salted almond and giving it a hard look through his monocle.

The news that Pilbeam was on a bed of sickness acted on three members of the party rather as the recent rain had acted on the parched earth. Lady Constance seemed to expand like a refreshed flower. Lady Julia did the same. Sir Gregory Parsloe, in addition to expanding, gave such a sharp sigh of relief that he blew a candle out. Three pairs of eyes exchanged glances. There was the same message of cheer in each. If Pilbeam had not taken the irrevocable step, those eyes said, all might yet be well.

"God bless my soul," said Lord Emsworth solicitously. "I hope he isn't really bad. These infernal thunderstorms are enough to give anyone a headache. I had a slight headache myself before dinner. I'll run up and see the poor chap, even if we've finished here. My goodness, I don't want Pilbeam on the sick list now, of all times," said Lord Emsworth, with a glance at Sir Gregory who was lifting his wineglass to his lips, shielded like a startled horse and spilled half its contents.

"Why now, particularly?" asked Lady Julia.

"Never mind," said Lord Emsworth darkly.

"I only asked," said Lady Julia, "because I, personally, consider at times are good times for Mr. Pilbeam. He has headaches. Not to mention bursitis, glanders, quartan ague, frog in the throat and the black death."

A soft, sibilant sound, like gas escaping from a pipe, came from the shadows of the sideboard. It was Beach expressing, as far as butlerine etiquette would permit him to express, his adherence to this sentiment.

Lord Emsworth, on the other hand, showed annoyance.

"I wish you wouldn't say such things, Julia."

"On the spur of the moment I could not think of anything worse."

"Don't you like Pilbeam?"

"My dear Clarence, don't be fantastic. Nobody likes Mr. Pilbeam. There are people who do not actually put poison in his soup, but that is as far as you can go."

"I disagree with you," said Lord Emsworth warmly. "I regard him as a capital fellow—capital. And most useful, let me tell you. Attempts are being made," said Lord Emsworth, once more sniping Sir Gregory with a penetrating eye, "by certain parties whom I will not name, to injure my pig. Pilbeam is helping me thwart them. Thanks to his advice, I have now put my pig where the parties to whom I allude will not find it quite so easy to get at her. Let me tell you that I think very highly of Pilbeam. I've a good mind to send him up half a bottle of champagne."

"Making the perfect example of carrying coals to Newcastle."

"Eh?"

"Oh, nothing. 'Twas but a passing jest."

"Champagne is good for headaches," argued Lord Emsworth. "It might make all the difference to Pilbeam." "Are we to spend the whole of dinner talking of Mr. Pilbeam and his headache?" demanded Lady Constance imperiously. "I am sick and tired of Mr. Pilbeam. And I don't want to hear any more of that pig of yours, Clarence. For goodness' sake, let us discuss some reasonable topic."

This bright invitation having had the not unnatural effect of killing the conversation completely, dinner proceeded in an unbroken silence. Once only did one of the revellers venture a remark. As Beach and his assistants removed the plates which had contained fruit salad and substituted others designed for dessert, Lady Julia raised her glass. "To the body upstairs—I hope," she said.

Percy Pilbeam, however, was not actually dead. At the precise moment of Lady Julia's toast, almost as if he were answering a cue, he sat up on his bed and stared muzzily about him. The fact that the room was now in darkness made it difficult for him to find his way. He immediately, and for perhaps half a minute he sat wondering where he was. Then memory returned, and with it an opening-and-shutting sensation in the region of the temples which made him regret that he had not gone on sleeping. Even if he had had the black death to which Lady Julia had so feelingly alluded, he could not have felt very much worse.

There are heads which are proof against over-indulgence in champagne. That of the Hon. Galahad Threewood is one that springs to the mind. Pilbeam's, however, did not belong to this favoured class. For a while he sat there, staring at each fresh wave of agony, then, levering himself up, he switched on the light and hobbled to the washstand, where he proceeded to drink deeply out of the water jug. This done, he filled the basin and started to give himself first-aid treatment.

Presently, a little restored, he returned to the bed and sat down again. Endeavouring to recall the events which had led up to the tragedy, he found that he could do so only sketchily. One fact alone stood out clearly in his recollection—to wit, that in some way he had been insulted by Lady Constance Keeble. A great bitterness against Lady Constance began to burgeon within Percy Pilbeam, and it was not long before he reached the decision that, cost what it might, she must be scored off. There would be no auction sale. As soon as he felt capable of moving, he would take that manuscript to Lord Tilbury at the Emsworth Arms.

At this point in his meditations, the house was blown up by a bomb. Or what amounted to much the same thing as far as the effect on his nervous system was concerned—there was a knock at the door.

"May I come in, my dear fellow?"

Pilbeam recognized the voice. He could not be rude to his only friend at Blandings Castle. He swallowed his heart again and unlocked the door.

"Ah! Sitting up, I see. Feeling a little better, eh? We all missed you at dinner," said Lord Emsworth, beginning to potter about the room as he pottered about all rooms which he honoured with his presence. "We wondered what had become of you. My sister Julia, if I remember rightly, speculated as to the possibility of your having got the black death. What put the idea into her head, I can't imagine. Absurd, of course. People don't get the black death nowadays. I've never heard of anyone getting the black death. In fact," said Lord Emsworth, with a burst of confidence, dropping into the fireplace the hairbrush which he had been attempting to balance on the comb, "I don't believe I know what the black death is."

A sense of being in hell stole over Percy Pilbeam. What with the clatter of that brush, which had set his head aching again, and his host's conversation, which threatened to make it ache still more, he was sore beset.

"No doubt all that has happened," proceeded Lord Emsworth, moving the soap dish a little to the left, the water bottle a little to the right, a chair a little nearer the door, and another chair a little nearer the window, "is that that thunderstorm gave you a headache. And I was wondering, my dear fellow, if a breath of fresh air might not do you good. Fresh air is often good for headaches. I am on my way to have a look at the Empress, and it crossed my mind that you might care to come with me. It is a beautiful night. There is a moon, and I have an electric torch."

Here Lord Emsworth, pausing from tapping the mirror with a buttonhook, produced from his pocket the torch in question, and sent a dazzling ray shooting into his companion's inflamed eyes.

"The action decided Pilbeam. To remain longer in the confined space of a bedroom with this man would be to subject his sanity to too severe a test. He said a look at the Empress."

Out on the gravel drive he began to feel a little better. As Lord Emsworth had said, it was a beautiful night. Pilbeam was essentially a creature of the city, with urban tastes, but even he could appreciate the sweet serenity of the grounds of Blandings Castle under the quiet moon. So restored did he feel by the time that he had gone a hundred yards or so that he even ventured a remark.

"Aren't we," he asked, "going the wrong way?"

"What's that, my dear fellow?" said Lord Emsworth, wrenching his head from the torch which he was flashing by the time that he had gone a hundred yards or so that he even ventured a remark.

"Don't you get to the sty by crossing the terrace?"

"Ah, but you have forgotten, my dear Pilbeam. Acting on your advice, we moved her to the new one just before dinner. You recollect advising us to move her from her old sty?"

"Of course, quite. Yes, I remember."

"Pirbright didn't like it. I could tell that by the strange noises he made at the back of his throat. He has some idea that she will feel restless and unhappy away from her old home, and she was particularly careful to wait and see that she was comfortably settled in, and I could detect no signs of restlessness whatever. She proceeded to eat her evening meal with every indication of enjoyment."

"Good," said Pilbeam, feeling distraught.

"Eh?"

"I said 'Good.'"

"Oh, good! Yes, quite so. Yes, very good. I feel very pleased about it. As I pointed out to Pirbright, the risk of leaving her in her old quarters was far too great to be taken. Whv, my dear Pilbeam, do you know that my sister Constance had actually invited that man Parsloe to dinner tonight? Oh, yes, there he was, sitting at dinner with me. No doubt he had persuaded her to invite him, thinking that, having got into the place, he would be able to find an opportunity of doing the deed of slipping away and going down to the sty and doing the poor animal a mischief. A nice surprise he's going to get when he finds the sty empty. He'll be nonplussed."

Here Lord Emsworth paused to chuckle. Pilbeam, though not amused, contrived to emit something that might have passed as a mirthful echo.

"This new sty, proceeded Lord Emsworth, having switched the torch on and off six times, "is an altogether more suitable place. As a matter of fact, I had it built specially for the Empress in the spring, but, owing to Pirbright's obstinacy, I never moved her there. I don't know if you know these Shropshire fellows at all, Pilbeam, but they can be as obstinate as Scotsmen. I have a Scots head gardener, Angus McAllister, and he is intensely obstinate. Like a mule, I must tell you something about the trouble I had with him regarding hollyhocks. But Pirbright can be fully as stubborn when he gets an idea into his head. I reasoned with him. I said, 'Pirbright, this sty is a new sty, with all the latest improvements. It is up-to-date, in keeping with the trend of modern thought, and what is more—and this I consider very important—it adorns the kitchen garden.'"

He broke off. A sound beside him in the darkness had touched his kindly heart.

"Is your head hurting you again, my dear fellow?"

But the bubbling cry which had proceeded from Percy Pilbeam had not been caused by a pain in the head.

"The kitchen garden?" he gasped.

"Yes. And that is most convenient, you see, because Pirbright's cottage is so close. No doubt you have seen the place, if you have ever strolled by the kitchen garden. It is made of stout red brick and timber, with a good tiled roof. In fact," said Lord Emsworth, flashing his torch, "here it is. And there," he went on, with satisfaction, "is the Empress, still feeding away without a care in the world. I told Pirbright he was all wrong."

The Empress might have been without a care in the world, but Percy Pilbeam was very far from sharing that ideal state. He leaned on the rail of the sty and groaned in spirit.

In the light of the electric torch, Empress of Blandings made a singularly attractive, even a fascinating picture. She had her noble head well down, and with a rending, gollupping sound was tucking into a late supper. Her curly little tail wagged incessantly, and ever and anon a sort of sensuous quiver would pass along her Zepoly-like body. But Percy Pilbeam was in no frame of mind to admire the rare and beautiful. He was trying to adjust himself to this utterly unforeseen disaster.

He had only himself to blame—that was what made it all the more bitter. Had he not so casually given his casting vote in favour of shifting this infernal pig to new quarters, he would not now be faced by a problem which seemed to become more and more difficult of solution.

For Pilbeam was afraid of pigs. He seemed to remember having read somewhere that if you go into a pig's sty and the pig doesn't know you, it comes for you like a tiger and chews you to ribbons. Greedy though he was for Lord Tilbury's gold, something told him that never, under any circumstances, the reward would be able to bring himself to go into that sty in quest of the manuscript, guarded as it now was by this ravening beast. The prodigal son might have mixed with these animals on a clubby basis, but Percy Pilbeam knew himself to be incapable of imitating him.

How long he would have stood there, savouring the bitterness of defeat, one cannot say. Left to himself, probably quite a considerable time. But his reverie had scarcely begun when it was shattered by a cry at his elbow:

"God bless my soul!"

It seemed to Pilbeam for an instant that he had come unstuck. He clutched the rail quivering in every limb.

"What on earth's the matter?" he demanded, far more brusquely than a guest should have done of his host.

An agitation almost equal to his own was causing the torch to wobble in Lord Emsworth's hands.

"God bless my soul, what's that she's eating?"

"Can you see what she's eating, Pilbeam, my dear fellow? . . . Pirbright! Pirbright! . . . Can it be paper?"

With a feeble swoop, Lord Emsworth bent through the rails. He came up again, breathing heavily. The light of the torch came and went like a heliograph upon something which he held in his hand.

"Yur, m'lord?"

"Pirbright, have you been giving the Empress paper?"

"Nur, m'lord."

"Well, that's what she's eating. Great chunks of it."

"Ur, m'lord?" said the pig man, marvelling.

"I assure you, yes. Paper. Look. Well, God bless my soul," cried Lord Emsworth, at last studying the torch. "I'm dashed if it isn't that book of my brother Galahad's!"

An immediate start is to be made on the foundation of the new gymnasium, it was decided at a meeting of the members held on Wednesday evening in the Municipal Hall. The lumber is to be ordered as soon as the money promised is gathered in, so that it can be paid for upon delivery. Two tenders for the lumber. The plan of the 42 by 70 building, with wings 12 by 50, was accepted by the members, as this will be a suitable size for basketball and will accommodate two badminton courts.

An offer from the Westbank Community Club to give their hall and provide the support for a dance was much appreciated and accepted, although the date suggested by Westbank, April 5, had already been announced as the night of the local Minstrel Show in aid of the gymnasium fund. It is expected that another date will be arranged that will be satisfactory to both towns.

The site of the school grounds on Sixth Street, against the hill, was chosen for the building.

The choice of a building committee was left in the hands of the executive who met immediately after the meeting. W. Clarke and W. E. Clements were appointed on this committee with the president, B. F. Gummow, as convener.

Following the smoker and concert held by the Canadian Legion on Friday evening, the Legion Hall was broken into some time after twelve p.m. Aside from some biscuits and nothing else was missing, although three locks were broken by the thieves on the doors and one on a cupboard. The Provincial Police are investigating the case.

A good crowd attended the "Fish and Chips" supper held on Saturday evening in the Municipal Hall. Proceeds of the supper went toward the local funds of the Peachland-Westbank Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

F. Stragnall, of Moncton, N.S., who spent several months here last summer, arrived in town on Thursday for a month's holiday. He is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Stewart.

Mr. F. Bunce left on Thursday morning by motor for Vancouver, where he expects to make a short stay before returning to his home in Saskatchewan.

Mrs. A. McKay spent several days in Kamloops during the week.

Municipal Council

At the Council meeting held on Monday afternoon in the Municipal Hall, it was decided, because of dissatisfaction with the police by the Provincial Police, to terminate the agreement with them at the earliest possible date. It was thought that this could not be done until the end of the year, but the Council considered that having a local constable resident in the district was more satisfactory.

BADMINTON

Kelowna Wins Match With West
Summerland

The badminton season was brought to a successful close at the Kelowna Badminton Club on Sunday, when a return match was played with a West Summerland team, Kelowna winning by 11 matches to 5.

The Kelowna team was composed of H. Webb, A. C. Coates, J. Treadgold, R. Lupton, Misses M. Taylor, J. Pease, A. Allen and R. Gross.

American Tournament

On Friday, forty-eight members participated in the American tournament which was played at the club as the final competition of the season.

Winners in each of the four sections were: No. 1, Michael Reid and Barbara Fry; No. 2, O. France and Mrs. W. W. Pettigrew; No. 3, Jack Treadgold and Alison Reid; No. 4, Charlie Pease and Kay Hill.

In the playoff to decide the winner of the tournament, Treadgold and Miss Reid beat Pease and Miss Hill; France and Mrs. Pettigrew beat Reid and Miss Fry. In the final, France and Mrs. Pettigrew beat Treadgold and Miss Reid, thereby placing first in the tournament.

During the evening, refreshments were served.

Kettle Brings Wireless Message

KAMLOOPS.—Sunday afternoon, while sitting in the C.C.F. club rooms, W. Hutchins, old naval man with a rusty knowledge of the Morse code, suddenly sat transfixed when he realized that a copper kettle on the stove was rattling out a wireless message about an airplane's flight.

This was between 12 and 12.30 o'clock, says Mr. Hutchins, who is anxious to hear from any other sender who could perhaps suggest how this phenomenon came about.

Vernon Police Plebiscite Delayed

VERNON.—There will be no plebiscite taken on the police question until the time of the next civic election, in January, 1936, according to a decision of the City Council. This decision followed discussion of the petition recently circulated by the Vernon and District Property Owners' Association, asking for a plebiscite by which people of the city might signify whether they wish continuation of the reorganized city police force or the taking over of the city by the Provincial Police.

A small delegation of the Association, which was present at the Council meeting, intimated that they might carry their appeal for a legal plebiscite to the Provincial Government.

PORT ALBERNI.—"Women too will have to 'kick in a buck' as anglers this season," says Game Warden A. Monks. All those over 18 must be licensed, according to a new regulation of the Game Board.

Last year the dollar licence applied only to males, and 420 of them were taken out in the entire Alberni district.

Penticton Buys And Sells Bonds

PENTICTON.—For the purpose of obtaining local issues showing a higher yield than some existing sinking fund bonds, Penticton Council on Monday night decided to sell through the Dominion Securities Corporation $100,000 in Province of Manitoba 4½ per cent debentures due in 1951, yielding 4.57 per cent on a basis of 99, and to buy through the same concern $100,000 in Municipality of Penticton 6 per cent bonds due in 1951, yielding 6.1 per cent at 91.

It is stated that the exchange will mean an increase in the saving fund accumulation of $1,500 annually. The increase in interest is more than 1½ per cent.

Angry Penticton Hoop Fans Stop Game

PENTICTON.—He may be a very popular man in his home town, Mr. Williamson, of New Westminster, but to Penticton he rates lower than an eel's stomach. And it all came about when Fogg Motors of New Westminster met Penticton Intermediate A's for the B. C. championship recently. Penticton fans could stand for so much, but Mr. Williamson as referee was just too much. With five seconds left to play, the fans swarmed on to the floor, protesting violently.

They surrounded Mr. Williamson and told him in no uncertain terms that he was rotten, terrible—that he should never show his face before his human ilk again, etc., etc. Several invitations to come around the corner and "have it out" were extended, but none was

The next competition, a mixed foursome handicap, choose partners, will be staged on April 11th.

MRS. RATTENBURY SPENT CHILDHOOD IN KAMLOOPS

Accused Wife Of Murdered Architect Well Remembered In Interior City

Mrs. Alma Victoria Rattenbury, charged with the murder of her husband, Francis Rattenbury, the 67-year-old architect who designed the British Columbia parliament buildings, is a former Kamloops girl. The Sentinel publishes the following sketch of Mrs. Rattenbury:

Formerly Alma Victoria Clark, Mrs. Rattenbury lived in Kamloops and went to school here for several years. She was the daughter of W. W. Clark, formerly of the Standard staff, and they lived in a house opposite the old postoffice down on Victoria Street West. Well known as a child violinist, Alma went to Zetland School when a tiny tot, where she is well remembered. She appeared in many concerts and at the age of twelve went to Victoria to live. Those who recall her think she is closer to thirty-five years of age than thirty-one. Her mother's name was Wolf and Alma became Mrs. Pakenham; perhaps this was a second marriage, as it is believed she contracted her first marriage when she went overseas first. Rattenbury was the third husband, it is claimed. Precocious and talented, she was very attractive indeed. At music she was an easy first always.

Latterly Mrs. Rattenbury studied piano intensively and a few years ago, before she met Rattenbury, appeared in Victoria as a pianist and was considered an excellent artist.

Accepted. He took it all and said nothing.

Incidentally, Fogg Motors won from Penticton by the score of 29-18.

Vancouver Island Moves For Good Roads

VICTORIA.—Not only is the Victoria Chamber of Commerce ready to back the Nanaimo Board of Trade in its efforts to have the government improve the main highways of Vancouver Island before the tourist season commences, but it intends to send a strong committee to Hon. F. M. MacPherson "to seek justice for the Island in the expenditure of capital outlay on roads."

It had been reported that it was the intention of the government to expend only sixteen per cent of the new $3,000,000 road loan within Island constituencies. This amount is held to be not adequate to the needs of the Island.

Vernon's Tax Rate Remains At 40 Mills

DON'T FORGET—HOSPITAL EGG WEEK, April 8-13

The City Council set itself to pursue a policy of rigid economy, and it was decided to curtail radically all expenditures during the year. As it seemed doubtful whether all salaries could be paid in full, a proposal by one of the aldermen to make a reduction in them all round failed to gain the support of the Council.

At a meeting of the Board of Trade, Mr. F. W. Groves urged the advisability of extending to Carmi the road then existent as far as Hydraulic Summit, a distance of twenty-four miles from Kelowna, and a resolution was passed instructing the Transportation Committee to bring the matter to the attention of the Provincial Government.

A hardy annual dealt with at the meeting was the Kelowna-Westbank ferry service, a strong protest being made against the charges, which at that time amounted to $2.00 each way for a motor car, exclusive of passengers.

TEN YEARS AGO
March 19, 1925

"A Victoria correspondent advises us that Mrs. Long, of that city, formerly of Kelowna, distinctly heard a few nights ago the announcement, 'Kelowna, where the red apples grow,' followed by gramophone music, the words and music being very much clearer than the broadcasts sent out by the large stations. It seems this was part of the programme broadcast by Mr. G. H. Dunn, official broadcaster for the Kelowna Radio Association, through his station 10AY, and the incident is not only a tribute to the quality of his work and apparatus but serves to illustrate the variety of interest in radio as a hobby, through which an exile can thus be placed in touch most unexpectedly with the old home."

RED CLOVER SEED
SUPPLY AND DEMAND

Quantity Available This Spring Not As Large As Usual

Red clover is always in popular demand in Canada and promises to be in more than average demand this spring owing to the unusual shortage and high price of alfalfa and timothy seed. According to the Seed Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, the red clover seed supply is not as large as in most years. Last year's total production in Canada was about two and one-half million pounds, and with the half million pounds or so of imported English red clover seed, there will be available for seeding in Canada this spring about three million pounds. The normal annual Canadian consumption is more than this, being between four and five million pounds.

The continued low purchasing power of farmers of course will have an effect in reducing seed purchases, but the relatively low price for red clover seed, as compared with alfalfa and timothy, will probably increase the preference for red to the extent that the total supplies of red clover seed available will likely all be needed before the season is over.

Most of last year's red clover seed crop in Canada was grown in Eastern Ontario and Quebec, which is fortunate from the standpoint of seed hardness and purity. The greater part of this seed is now in the hands of the seed houses for resale, but considerable quantities are still held by the growers in the Plantagenet area in Eastern Ontario and in the Montreal district in Quebec.

Further information as to sources of supply may be obtained from the Seed Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

BUDGET PASSES BY TWENTY-FOUR MAJORITY

OTTAWA, April 4.—The Government won a triple victory in the strangest budget debate in years in the House of Commons yesterday, when the budget was approved by a majority of twenty-four. At the same time a Liberal amendment calling for an immediate election was rejected, as also was the call of the third party for a new monetary policy by socialization of the banks. After the opening criticism of the budget by Hon. J. L. Ralston, the Liberals took no further part in the debate, declaring that the proper policy was to wind up the business of the House and go to the country.

POTATO RECIPES

The following recipes are recommended by the Dominion Department of Agriculture in the cooking of potatoes:

Glazed Sweet Potatoes

Wash and pare six medium sized potatoes. Cook in boiling salted water until soft. Drain, cut in halves lengthwise, and put in a buttered pan. Make a syrup by boiling one-half cup sugar and four tablespoons water three minutes; then add one tablespoon butter. Brush potatoes with syrup and bake until brown, basting twice with remaining syrup.

Warm Over Potatoes

Shape cold mashed potatoes in small cakes, and roll in flour. Butter hot omelette pan, put in cakes, brown one side, turn and brown other side, adding butter as needed to prevent burning; or pack potato in small buttered pan as soon as it comes from table, and set aside until ready for use. Turn from pan, cut in pieces, roll in flour, and cook same as potato cakes.

Curried Potatoes

Cook one-fourth cup butter with one small onion, finely chopped, until yellow; add three cups cold boiled potatoes, cut in cubes, and cook until potatoes have absorbed butter, then add from ¼ to ¾ absorbed white stock, ½ tablespoon each curry powder and lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste. Cook until potatoes have absorbed stock.
